BROTHERLY LOVE. Moses Siegel (left) and Jonah Siegel, have been expressing a lot of it after not seeing each other for 55 years. The latter is visiting here from Buenos Aires where he has been living for 38 years.

pearance to the missing persons bureau here. But no trace of Olsen was found until after midnight Friday night, when Mrs. Olsen prepared to pack away some winter drapes in a tiny crawl-space attic above their apartment. Sprawled on the attic rafters was her husband's body.

55 Years End in Brothers' Meeting

For two weeks Moses Siegel, 71, of 485 E. 115th Street, has been entertaining a special guest, his brother, Jonah, 65, from Buenos Aires, whom he had not seen for 55 years.

As the visitor speaks Spanish but no English, conversations are carried on in German and Yiddish.

his home in Austria in 1901, he recognized his brother instantly when he stepped off the plane.

Moses Siegel's seven married children and 11 grandchildren are keeping the visitor busy with sightseeing trips and family gatherings.

The visiting brother will return to Argentina later this month.
